My life down under

My life has totally changed since 2019. Why, you ask? Well, my family emigrated to Australia... to Melbourne, in November 2019 and I have just started to get used to my new life here. As you can imagine, for a 16-year-old boy like me such a move was a really big life event! I'm still very confused and excited at the same time.

Mum and Dad started talking about moving to Australia when I was about ten. We went there on holiday twice before they decided that it was the best place to live for our family. My dad's a doctor so he found a job quickly. My mum's a lawyer but hasn't got a job yet, because she wanted to stay at home first and help me and my sister settle in. But she has just had an interview with a legal office in the city which went really well.

For me and Natalie, my sister, life is very different now. We've already made loads of friends at school, but we miss our friends in England and that's why we Skype them most days! We really like our new school. I haven't done any exams yet but next month I've got an important Maths test and I'm a bit worried. After school we often go to the beach to swim or surf, and at the weekends we have BBQs or swim in our pool – yes, we've got a pool in our garden!! Isn't it amazing? My English friends can't believe it.
